

Steven Adleberg

Steve is the JCRC Director of Education Outreach. Steve has been an educator in Fairfax County Public Schools (FCPS) for the last four decades. He was an elementary classroom teacher, IT resource teacher, assistant principal, and principal in FCPS for 33 years. Steve has a clear passion for educating the next generation matched by his commitment to the Jewish community. Following three years as the senior administrator at Gesher Jewish Day School in Fairfax, he became religious school director at Congregation Beth Emeth. He has helped train religious school teachers in Northern Virginia as part of the Partnership for Jewish Life & Learning's In-Service Training Corps in addition to teaching middle school students at Congregation Adat Reyim's religious school. Steve and his wife live in West Springfield.